Responsibility Shirked.

It has been a Legislature marked a shirking of responsibility for improvement in governmental conditions and by a strict adher-ence to the old political system operated more to provide jobs for the party faithful than to perform efent service. Proposals for the creation of commission to make a complete survey of the State government by perts, and for the establishment of a civil service system for State mployes on merit examinations, were rejected outright, while funds were provided for an expansion of many existing departments and for continuation of the present wasteful and inefficient me

One of Major Muddles. A major legislative muddle was n connection with truck regulatory egislation. The expiration of a con stitutional prohibition against increased taxation of motor vehicles, except common carrier trucks, made t possible for this Legislature for the first time in 10 years to impose special permit fee on the contract carriers and hose of private carriers.

ring the session just closed was out a repetition of the methods nich have grown up gradually during many years, under which tricky manipulation by experienced legislators, served to selay action on important bills opposed by selfish political interests or by special interests with a financial stake.

Example of Manipulation. An example was the bill to reire public sale of bonds by bids, prohibiting private sales. This was opposed by political interests in Kansas City, which sought to peretuate a system under which two years ago a sale of public building bonds of the State was made privately to a Kansas City bond house at a price $50,000 lower than a pubsale was stopped at the last minute

SENIOR FLIGHT.

KANSAS CITY, June 24 (AP) .--Ted Adams of Chillicothe and Don Smith of St. Joseph will play the 36-hole final match for the Missouri amateur golf title tomorrow.

A sensational string of four co birdies, manufactured with the aid of a putter that was smoking hot, brought the youthful Canadian champion a 20-hole 1-up victory over Bob Cochran of St. Louis, in today's semifinal round. Tremendous tee-shots were instru mental in Smith's decision ov quiet Jack Sandusky, 1 up, in the lower bracket.

The two St. Joseph players went ist honors, shared at the close of Thursday's qualifying play by Jons Weiss of St. Louis, and R. J. (Hap) Gardner of Kansas City. Weiss, never far from par all week, won with a 36-37-73. Gardner had 37-They tied with par 146's in

The turning point in the duel really came on the ninth green. Adams was two down at the tee and his iron shot landed less than two feet from the pin 220 feet away. Cochran's blow squirted into a trap but his brilliant recovery left him only a short putt which he sank for a par three. Adams missed his and, infuriated, he reached out.

—what a spectacle that would be.

His Defeat Complex.

THE WORST INDICTMENT against Galento as a possible victor over Louis is the fact that he has lost 22 fights in his professional career beginning with Only two of his defeats have been on fouls, one was to J. J. Lawless in 1928, the other was to Jack Gagnon, One of his early defeat complexes concerned Negro oppo-nents. As an amateur he took a savage beating from a Negro foe, Thereafter Tommy Blake. Tommy Blake. Thereafter Negroes had the Indian sign on him for years. Neil Clisbe, Obie Walker and other Negro fighters beat him. Al Gainer, a light heavyweight, trimmed him vi-ciously as late as 1936.

The following year Galento finally wrecked the jinx, knocking out Lorenzo Pack and Leroy Haynes, both dusky foemen. His only Negro battle since then was against Otis Thomas here in St. Louis when he won by a knock-out, after Referee Walter Heisner had stopped the fight on fouls. The commission reinstated the action on Manager Bill Duffy's pro-test, in the ninth. One tremendous hook to the body finished Thomas quickly.

Galento's stubborn persistence in a career which he twice gave up indicates he is not easily discouraged. His fights also show a strong trait of stubborn resistance as well as indifference to point out that he is in for a terrific beating. And, considering his known courage, the ease with which he can be hit and the superiority of his opponent every feature of fighting (except stamina), a beating he probably

Rising Business Barometers And Roosevelt's Federal Loan Plan Fail to Excite Stock List

Market During Week Has to Contend With Nervousness Over the Anglo-Nipponese Controversy—Average Up .78 of Point

NEW YORK, June 24 (AP).-Rising business barometers and Presfdent Roosevelt's proposals for nearly four billion dollars additional Federal loans for the long-range public works program failed to excite 1 the stock market this week, Forewarned of the new lending ideas, Wall Street security markets continued to idle while traders waited for a decisive trend to appear. Stocks and bonds rallied a bit in slow dealings without emerging from their recent narrow zone. The Tientsin incident and uneasiness lest the British-Japanese maneuvering lead to another foreign crisis seemed to be a drawback on speculative activity.

The market attempted another feeble rally today, and while scattered strong spots were discernible, price trends were highly indefinite

The Associated Press average of 60 issues ended off .1 of a point at 47.4 for the day, but was .6 of a point higher for the week. The Dow-Jones average of 65 stock at 46.00 was .02 of a point lower for the day and .78 of a point higher for the week. Transfers totaled 187,820 shares against 171,440 last Saturday. The week's volume was 2,411,710 shares, against 2.510,530, northward into its full summer swing, rail traffic expanded. Opportune rains watered growing crops in some sections, improving the harvest outlook but threatening to prolong the farm surplus problem.

The big steel and automobile industries pushed operations up another notch. Government-financed and private building poured millions of dollars into supply orders and payrolls. Trade figures showed May construction contracts were the largest for the month in nine years and were 25 per cent above the May (1938) total.

The Duke blushed and looked helpless. He started his old gesture of bringing his hand toward his tie, then dropped the hand and murmured: "Thank you."

I had first asked the Duchess if I might tell the Duke how the Canadians regarded him, "Do, He'll be so pleased," she replied.

ANNE O'HARE McCORMICK NEW YORK, June 24.

RS. ANNE O'HARE McCOR-MICK, who glories in the title of reporter and the practice of objective journalism, looked up from her desk and remarked earnestly: "One of the things I most admire for indignation." And Miss Thompson, crusading and emotional columnist, the "blue-eyed tornado" of John Gunther's phrase, has been known to declare of Mrs. Mc-Cormick: "I envy her power of detached reasoning, the strict logic of

Thus do the reigning queens of reads the script, makes some cor-American newspaperdom point the rections, not many, and dispatches startling contrast between their the copy to the printer. personalities. Both have outdistanced all feminine and most of methods, according to their intitheir male competitors. Mrs. Mc-Cormick is regarded by many students as perhaps the sanest and best-informed commentator on foreign affairs now writing in this country. Many consider Miss Thompson the most rousing and influential of present-day columnists. Both entered journalism more or less by accident, and both are gifted with highly able intelligence.

But there the likeness virtually odds with his wife's passion for ends. Strangely enough, it is Miss excitement, crowds and noise. Thompson who is explosive with temperament, though she can trace and Scottish forbears. There is not a vestige of the melodramatic in Mrs. McCormick, though her blood is Irish. Except for brilliant dark eyes and a tell-tale glint of red in the hair, she might pass easily for the coziest, most comfortable homebodies. But the tall, blonde and impetuous Miss Thompson gives an impression of Diana with her spear. Characteristic is the difference between their working habits. Mrs. McCormick, when in America, keeps strict office hours. She arrives at her noiseless and solitary study high in the New York Times Annex, at 10 a. m. every day, attends the news-'paper's daily editorial conference at 11:30, and during the afternoon settles down at her own typewriter to tap out the day's article. She

Miss Thompson never goes to her office in the Herald Tribune building, largely because the newspaper never seen the way clear to establish a boudoir on its premises. Author: The Ham-mer and the Scythe (Communist Russia), 1928. Contbr. to New York Times. Address: Miami Hotel, Dayton, O." She relates that the publisher pestered her for added details, and finally threatened to remove the item altogether unless it was elaborated. "Nothing would please me better," she wrote happiand vanished thereafter from this encyclopedia of the great and near-great. Miss Thompson has made public the fact that her total income last year was $103,000; that her business expenses were $25,000 and that she paid $37,000 in taxes. That left $41,000 to live on, of which she gave away one-fifth. Mrs. Mc-Cormick declined to state her salary, beyond an assertion that it was not $100,000 "by a long shot. She added whimsically that she could not even think in terms of such a figure; but that if $103,000

is what Miss Thompson earned, then "more power to her."

The daughter of a Dayton insur ance man with relatives in the Brit-ish Isles whom he visited nearly every year, Mrs. McCormick was born in England. The date of that event remains here own secret, but apparently she is several years Miss Thompson's senior. The latter, in "Who's Who," gives July 9, 1894, as her birthday, so that she throw away lots of defenses that will soon be 45. "I like my present age," said Mrs. McCormick, "better than any age of mine I can remember. Now I can travel about the world like a human being, and once were necessary." Almost from the cradle, Anne O'Hare knew she was to be a writer. She was educated at St. Mary's College, near Columbus, O., and at the age of 16 had not only written a dozen short stories but sold them all to magazines, including Collier's and the Atlantic Gotham Hotel. From childhood Europe has been her familiar ground. She gained fluent ease in French and Italian; she learned to read and understand German, if not to speak it readily Her passion was art galleries and particularly architecture, the latter which she came to regard as among the most authentic of historical records. "Written chro can lie." she decided, "but buildings so happened that she was in Italy during the industrial dis-orders of the early twenties, and saw the beginnings of Fascism. The situation appeared to her so interesting that on impulse she wrote a free-lance article and mailed it to the New York Times. The newspaper cabled back: "Keep on!" This was in 1922. Since then she has been a member of the Times staff, as a feature writer for its Sunday magazine, a special European correspondent and now expert on foreign affairs in the newspaper's editorial council. She saw with her own eyes Germany's tragedy of inflation, and in Russia was startled to note that its church paintings were primitive, of pre-Giotto style, but that they were one in the eighteenth instead of the twelfth century. It dawned upon her that Russia had had no Renaissance, that it had missed the great spiritual movements of modern Europe, "With these backgrounds," she said, "it is impossible for me to see Fascism. Naziism or Communism in pure black and white."

She disagrees with the common terminology which describes the Nazis and Fascists as Rightists, and the Communists as Leftists. "Nothing is going Right," she said, "but all these movements are parts of a world-wide sweep to the Left, by diverse routes, toward some form of State Socialism. Our task in America, it seems to me, is to save as much as we can a margin of individual decision. We may be able half a dozen times, Hitler once, and spent six hours in the presence of Stalin, when he received a visiting Labor committee. She found Mussolini essentially a journalist, a good listener, who talked little himself. But Hitler, she said, listens to nobody, and his interviews are stump speeches. Soon after he came to power. Mrs. McCormic had the hardihood to interrupt his "He came right down to earth," she relates, "and proved to be quite an agreeable human be ing." She did not make Miss Thompson's most famous mistake, that of deciding that Hitler was "insignificant." "One cannot listen to him five minutes," she declared, "without being impressed with his fanatic belief in his mission as redeemer of the German race." Having recently returned from Europe, she felt that Hitler is less popular in Germany than he was a year ago. though she sees no chance that he will soon be overthrown. Strangely enough, according to Mrs. McCormick, it was Chamberlain and not Hitler who for the German people was the hero of Munich. The latest Jewish pogroms, she said, alienated many Teutons from the regime. "One of Europe's dangers," she continued, "is that Hitler is obsessed with a conviction that he has not long to live. This is despite the fact that his health is excellent. He feels that so much re-mains to do, and that he must hurry-hurry. I no longer ask when the next world war will break out. I ask why it has not happened already. The reason must be that there is a powerful undertow toward peace among all the peoples, including those of the axis na-

Stalin impressed Mrs. McCormick with an unexpected air of gentleness, combined with the the watchfulness, wariness and suspicion of an Oriental chieftain. One had to be careful what questions were put to him, because he was so anxious to be fully understood and explain everything in detail that a random query would be punished with half an hour's reply. Of all the world's rulers, she declared, we have-whether we agree with him or not-one of the most colorful and vivid in Franklin D. Roosevelt. Mrs. McCormick witnessed the overthrow of the Social-Democrat

Miss Thompson is one of the most resoundingly publicized citizens of the United States. Her career has been related in scores of magazines and newspapers. She writes a monthly editorial for the Ladies Home Journal, lectures assiduously and broadcasts once week over a national network. Although she attacks the problem rationally, she does not overlook the importance of emotions, and she readily grants that many an early decision leading to matrimony is founded on physical attraction. But, with a reasonably long engagement period, there is always time to stop, look and listen. Miss Johnson recommends reconnoitering before the engagement.

Miss Johnson's opinions are predicated not only on text book research, but also on observation per-mitted in a wide range of social contacts. Some of her best friends are married. She herself has not undertaken the venture for reasons of her own, and her twinkling eyes

WAS stopped in reading William Lyon Phelps' "Autobiography" the other day when he recorded the saying of G. K. Chesterton concerning the American attitude towards smoking. I quote: "I remember once receiving two American interviewers on the same afternoon; there was a box of cigars in front of me and I offered one to each in turn. Their reaction was very curious to watch. The first stiffened suddenly and declined in a very cold voice. The second first looked doubtful, then sly, and said, "Well, Mr. Chesterton, I am afraid I have the habit.' As I also have the habit and never have been able to imagine how it could be connected with morality or immorality, I confess

I don't know where he found a journalist in this country who be-lieved smoking was immoral, but as regularly as I write on the subject I get letters from school teachers who believe that, and I am glad to be able to record the opinion of so great and good a man as Chesterton to the contrary.

I HAVE actually had letters from American school masters to the effect that they observed the students who smoked cigarettes were the ones who frequented pool halls and cultivated low company. Such a cause and effect seems to me entirely absurd.

On the physical side, the effect of smoking is still debatable. If anything, there has been more evidence the harmfulness of smoking lately than the harmlessness. Dr. Raymond Pearl of Johns Hopkins University, a man notoriously lenient with human habits, reported some tables in March, 1938, that conclusively prove that the less you noke the longer you live.

Charles Ricket, winner of a Nobel prize, and in physiology, too, said:" "I have fettered myself with this habit with no better excuse than universal folly. I injure my appetite, my memory, my sleep and the action of my heart by breathing noxious vapors."

TY WALKS IN THE DOOR, LOVE Whether all of this is true, I seriously doubt. A recent study published in the Journal of the American Medical Association indicated that tobacco had no bad effect on mate with a woman with high acathat a man who considers himself the alimentary tract; that digestion went on at the same speed and with a chieve their intellectual equals gin to look forward without any the same efficiency with tobacco as

HELPS SPEND 20½ MILLION TELEPHONE DOLLARS

IN MISSOURI

SO YOUR TELEPHONE SERVICE CAN BE CLEAR AND GOOD

Giving you fast, dependable telephone service in Missouri is no small job. It takes skilled, efficient people . . . 7,000 of them in the state. It takes a lot of telephones, switchboards . . . a lot of wire and other equipment.

And it takes money ... a total of 201/2 million dollars for Missouri last year... about 10 million dollars for wages alone, over three million dollars more for taxes.

The telephone company is an important part of the life of the state. It means money spent in Missouri; people at work in Missouri; and, most important, a dependable, friendly telephone service at a reasonable price to you.

NY team of director and screenplay writer which sets out to do A a film based on the familiar prizelegated and had afraid, sticking out its neck. That is exactly what Director Wesley a film based on the familiar prizefighter and lady theme is, I am Ruggles and Writer Claude Binyon have done in "Invitation to Happiness," at the Ambassador.

Ruggles and Binyon have contributed much for the public enjoyment in such sprightly comedies as "I Met Him in Paris" and "True Confession." Their distinctive touches are on "Invitation to Happiness" in which Fred MacMurray, the prizefighter, marries the beiress, Irene Dunne. Each incident has some fresh turn, some common sense handling that is gratifying.

But the production flounders around for a new approach to an old situation and arrives at it too late to help very much. For almost an hour MacMurray and Miss Dunne drift along without outside opposition to their romance or perplexities on their own part. Her papa doesn't mind, Fred keeps his ears clean and quits looking at blondes, Irene's friends don't figure in the picture because Mr. Binyon and Mr. Ruggles have placed the family in a kind of social vacuum.

A son is born and grows to be 10 years of age in as short time as one can turn the pages in a photograph album. Then the problem. Dad MacMurray has been away from home so much that Junior doesn't care for him in the least. That hurts Dad, he and Mama get to quarreling and there's a divorce, just about the time Dad is getting his crack at the championship. So, after a careless build-up, the drama: Fred must win the championship in order to win the love of his son. And, old warhorse that he is, he loses.

The merits of the climax should not be discounted by what has gone before. For the scenes at the ring and in the dressing-room afterward cause all kinds of sniffles, upstairs and downstairs at the Ambassador. Director Ruggles brings forth some of the best acting Mr.

MacMurray has ever been credited with. One searches away back "The Champ" to find any prizefight episodes that are as moving.

If only Mr. Ruggles and Mr. Binyon had thrown away the first half of their picture and developed the last half, they might have had something really big.

"Blind Alley," which fills out the program at the Ambassador, is a picture adaptation of the stage melodrama which the Little Theaof St. Louis presented last fall. It tells how an escaped killer hides out in the home of a psychiatrist and how the psychiatrist takes him apart mentally. With not the at-mosphere of "Night Must Fall," it With not the atnevertheless has some of the same kind of absorbing interest, especially for a lesson in Freudian psychology and the projection of dreams by reverse photographic process. Chester Morris does a good job as the killer, Ralph Bellamy is equally competent as the doctor, Naughty, But Nice.

HARMLESS, in spite of its title, "Naughty But Nice" furnishes a traditional type of farcical entertainment, plus songs, at the Fox Theater. Dick Powell is the staid young music professor who goes to Broadway, makes a few mistakes about lemonade, climbs a chandelier or two and dashes off some of the best swing numbers of the day. This complicates things back at old Winfield College and Dick is in disgrace with the dean, his three maiden aunts and everybody else. But, as pointed out already, "Naughty But Nice" is traditional farce and overlooks the act that any publicity-seeking college of the day would probably make Dick an LL.D at the very next commencement.

FRAU GOERING SERVES AS HITLER'S HOSTESS

Actress-Wife of No. 2 Nazi More and More in Limelight at Official Affairs.

BERLIN, June 24 (AP).-Frau Emmy Goering, whose Field Marshal husband is No. 2 man in Adolf Hitler's Germany, has climbed notch above her husband.

Chancellor Hitler is using the 40year-old former actress more and more as his official hostess. She particularly was in the limelight during the recent five-day state visit of Prince Regent Paul Yugoslavia and Princess Olga. Frau Goering stoor beside the Nazi Fuehrer and received guests with him at the state banquet in the new Reich Chancellery. At numerous other affairs she acted in the same capacity.

Miss Simpkins Is Married to John A. Love Jr.

Evening Wedding and Reception at Home of Mr. and Mrs. Walter E. Scott, 5 Westmoreland Place.

ILLOWY tulle was combined with heaviest satin, both in ides of French blue, to create bridal gown of Miss Mary wise Simpkins, daughter of Mrs. marriage to John Allan Love Jr., last night at 8 o'clock. Mr. Love's parents are Mr. and Mrs. John Allan Love, Whitestone, Ladue road. Flowers in pastel shades deco-rated the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Walter S. cott. 5 Westmoreland place, for the ceremony, at which Bishop Wil-Scarlett officiated. White atin ribbons connected posts to make an aisle for the members of the wedding party, who entered from the dining room. They pro-ceeded through the hall to the living room bay windows, which had been draped in white as background or the improvised altar. Just back of the satin prie dieu stood large baskets of white larkspur and gladiolas flanking either side, and many white candles.

Other floral decorations in this oom, in which the two families stood, were window boxes filled with phinium the same shade as the bride's costame. Her dress, with tulle bodice and girdle appliqued in satin, was designed with a very full tulle skirt ending in back in a long train. Tulle sleeves, puffed at the shoulder and trimmed with satin encrustations, fitted tightly at the wrists. From a blue tulle Juliet cap fell a matching full-length veil. To harmonize with the rest of her ensemble, the bride carried a cascade bouquet of blue delm. Mr. Scott gave his granddaughter in marriage. They were preceded immediately in the procession to the altar by Nathalie Pierre-pont Love, the bridegroom's 6-yearold sister. She, too, was dressed in blue net and satin, made with short, puffed sleeves and a square neck-line. The skirt, flounced at the hem, fell from a high waistline. A blue ribbon was wound around her head, and she carried a basket of sweetheart roses.

Miss Nathalie Scott Simpkins, sis ter of the bride, was maid of honor. She wore shadow-printed mousseline de sole in a soft shade of pink. Its square neckline and short puffed sleeves were outlined in ruching; the closely fitted bodice met the ounced skirt at the natural waistline. Bridesmaids were similarly gowned in white mousseline also embossed and carried white larkspur. They were: Mrs. Drew Brown, another sister of the bride; Mrs. Alanson C. Brown Jr., Mrs. Daniel Cox Fahey Jr. and Mrs.

Nathaniel Ewing was best mar Ushers were: Kennett Farrar Love, brother of the bridegroom; William McBride Love, his cousin; Drew Brown, Paul Bakewell III and Earl C. Moses Jr. of Great Bend, Kan.

Other guests at the ceremony stood in the drawing room, which had been adorned with Easter lilies, and in the hall where gladiolas, ranging from yellow to coral, had been arranged. After greeting the wedding party they were seated at small tables on the lawn for supper. In the dining room, the reception table was decorated with white

From out of town were the bridegroom's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Francis E. Barbour of Canajoharie, N. Y., and his uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. Garretson Wade of Cleveland, with their daughter, Miss Elizabeth, and son, Homer. The last four are guests at the home of Mrs. Wade's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Edward K. On the pulpit platform candles stood among woodwardia fern, and in the center was a tall arch of white larkspur and gladioli, widened at its base by more flowers as a back-ground for the wedding party.

The bride was given in marriage by her father. Her gown was white silk net, the bodice shirred and finished with a heart-shaped neckline and short puffed sleeves. Her double net skirt ended in a long train. She wore a coronet of orange clossoms to hold her long tulle veil and face veil, and carried a large ouquet of gardenias.

Mrs. Robert Patton Anderson of Worcester, Mass., matron of honor, wore a bouffant gown of deep green net, while bridesmaids-Miss Virginia Moser, Mrs. Lee Schnure, Miss Ruth Donnell and Mrs. Herbert Hopkins—wore similar frocks of a lighter shade. All were made like that of the bride, with shirred bodices and full, puffed sleeves. CRATERS OF MOON MONUMENT OPENED FOR SEASON the monument, the only one in Idaho, is recognized as one of the scenic attractions in the Northwest. The 49,000-acres area was the scene of intermittent volcanic activity as long ago as 30 million years and as recently as a few nundred years ago. The area is recognized as having more volcanic features than any other section of similar size within the United States. Appearance of its craters similar to those of the moon when viewed through a telescope, gives the monument its name.

Among its numerous points of interest is the North Crater Flow which can be easily traced to its source. Ropey lava, also known as pahoehoe, and jagged lava, also alled aa, are common. Although hundreds of years have elapsed since mass flowed, the lava is so unweathered that it appears to ave been a volcanic product of nly yesterday.

A number of large craters can be viewed in the monument. They have a maximum depth of 351 feet The craters were a source of four flows during the last appearance of volcanic activity. A line of spat er cones, south of the craters, are said to be one of the most perfect spatter-cone chains in the world Crystal Pit in the chain is 86 feet deep, lined with sparkling gypsum

MISSOURI WEEK TO BE

Missouri week is to be observed t the San Francisco World's Fair with a trainload of boosters and West Indies. Gov. Lloyd C. Stark, who will open festivities at the Missouri Building on July 16. Starting from St. Louis on July 9 a special train will pick up Missourians at Kansas City and Jefferson City, arriving at San Francisco on July 14. There will Yellowstone Park be steps at Spokane, Wash., and Portland, Ore. According to Col. Claude C. Earp of Nevada, chairman of the State Highway Commission, who is in charge of arrangements, at least one full train will make the trip. The Missouri Building is said t be one of the most extensive of states participating in the exposi-tion. The structure houses a se-ries of well-planned exhibits comined to present the early history of Missouri, its development and esources, scenery, products, culture and future aims. An authentic pioneer cabin, complete in all its furnishings, dom-inates the main exhibit room. The building was moved from its set ting among the trees of Taney

County and reconstructed. other places of historic interest are shown: the famous Arrow Rock Tavern, a vine-clad, brick structure furnished with specimens from early times when the Inn was the stopping place for travelers who were about to set out on their journey west; the other is the Valle home built in Ste. Genevieve in 1782 and said to be the first white settlement following the French ecupation in 1735.

The walls of the building are covered with murals, photographs and other media which detail the story of the State.

ROMANCE OF EARLY WEST FOUND IN WISCONSIN

The romance of the early West may still be found in some sections of Wisconsin. Fifteen minutes from the center of La Crosse, the city named for the Indian game, one may see the camps of Indians wearng tribal costumes and carrying of he primitive arts of weaving and basketry. This region lies along the green valley of the Mississippi. Islands dot the surface of the water while on either side the palisades lift their heights to the sky. Along the river sand beaches and campsites with opportunities for fishing and coating are numerous. From Granddad Bluff one may see three states and the meeting of three rivers. The French heritage of Wiscon sin is found in its many names Lac du Flambeau, meaning "lake of the flaming torch," is taken from the Indian custom of catching fish by the light of flares. Chippewas nd Ojibways live on the Flambeau reservation. One may get an idea of the number of lakes in this sec-tion from the fact that the 100 were increased by 60 miles in 1864 because the tribes were crowded for space. Most of the lake names are translated from the Indian No special license, aside from the regular State license, is required for FREE MAP AND GUIDE fishing in the reservation. are muskies, small-mouth bass and pike. MISSOURI YOUTH HOSTELS OPEN THEIR DOORS

An old water wheel which provides power for a saw mill near Davisville, Missouri, is one of the picturesque spots in the region southwest of St. Louis which are attracting young sight-seers, a group of whom is shown here, now that a chain of youth hostels has been established in this State. Providing inexpensive accommodations for young travelers—most of them hikers and cyclists—this chain, placed in operation this season, is part of a national organization, American Youth Hostels, Incorporated, and affiliated with similar organizations in Europe. Other photographs of hostelers on the Missouri circuit are on pages 10 and 11.

APANESE army spokesmen have called the blockade of the British and French concessions at Tientsin "an operation to remove barriers to the establishment of the new order in North China." The dispute started as a local issue, the refusal of the British to surrender four alleged Chinese terrorists. now has assumed international proportions, and the British are wondering how far the lapanese army will go to establish "the new order." Their chief fear is that the blockade is intended to deprive them of the concession at Tientsin, which is the outlet for Peiping and the rich North China area. Perhaps, if they yield to the settlement demands, which have many aspects of recognizing Japanese domination of China, Japan even will be able to squeeze them out entirely by elimination of concessions and treaty ports. Such an action would greatly facilitate Japan's advance into China, increase its prestige in the Orient at the expense of Britain's. That Japan desires to restrict foreign influence is indicated by the blockade, and demand for control of the Municipal Council, of the International Settlement

Concessions, or grants of special privileges to foreign Powers, have long been an integral part of China's trade relations. As generally considered, they take the form of a lease or grant of land in or near a port city for the use of citizens of the foreign country in carrying on trade. In a broader sense, however, they include the treaty ports opened to foreign trade; extraterritorial rights for resident foreigners, such as exemptions from Chinese laws and regulations; special customs privileges, and other "concessions." Britain has only two concessions in the leas d land sense, that at Tientsin other on the Island of mshui at Canton, but it has a stal of 16 treaty ports, include g Tientsin and Canton.

Arrives in the New World and Goes Into a Fit of Sulks-But Normally It Has a Sunny Temper and Behaves Like a Friendly Kitten

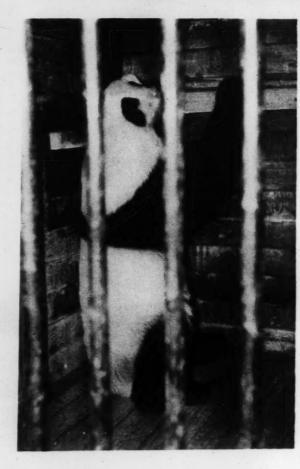

The door of the cage is raised to lure Happy to the front so a chain may be adjusted and the animal taken for an airing.

GIANT panda, a curious animal from Western China that looks like A a huge teddy bear and behaves like a little kitten, arrived at the St. Louis Zoo this week end, after several days of inspection at New York by Director George Vierheller, who had ordered it for the Zoo. Purchase depended on the physical condition of the animal, which is priced at about $5000. Named Happy because of a friendly disposition and sunny manner, this panda indicated such testiness after its first few days in a cage at the animal farm of Louis Ruhe, Incorporated, that orders were given to permit it to remain undisturbed until it fully regained its amiability. Happy weighs about 250 pounds and is about 33 inches high on all fours. The sex of the animal is undetermined. It has been shown at zoos in London, Berlin, Paris and Hanover, Germany, during the six months it has been in captivity. After resisting efforts of the keepers to place a chain around its neck in order to lead it out for a walk, Happy remained in the cage and engaged in a series of comical gymnastics in the course of which it stood erect like a bear, rolled on the floor like a dog, and finally wound itself into a ball like a playful kitten. Angry pandas bark like dogs, pleased pandas whinny like colts, and lonesome or unhappy pandas whine like frightened puppies. There are only three other pandas in zoos in this country, one in the Bronx Zoo, one in the Chicago Zoo and one at the New York World's Fair.

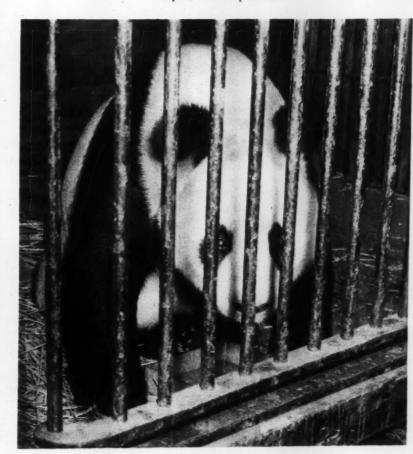

Happy resists the efforts of the keepers to place the chain at its neck.

The giant panda rears to about four feet on its hind legs, a favorite form of exercise.

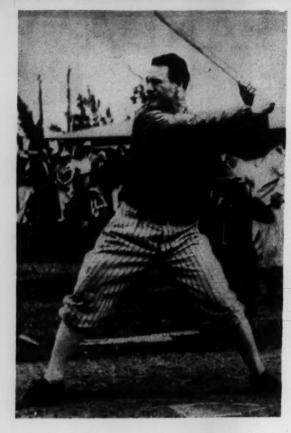

It rolls itself into a ball like a small kitten despite its 250 pounds.

in Detroit, it was the first time he had been missing from the Yankees' lineup for a regular game since June 1, 1925.

Durability was far from being Gehrig's only outstanding merit as a baseball player. His nickname of "Larruping Lou" is a tribute to the heavy and consistent hitting which gave him a lifetime major league batting average, up to this year of ill health, of .341, and a world series average of .361. Because of his batting and fielding, he was voted the most valuable player in the American League in 1927 and 1936; he led his league in hitting in 1934 with an average of .363.

Born in a tenement district of New York City, Gehrig went through high school and studied two years at Columbia University before signing with the Yankees in 1923, when the family finances were so low he felt it necessary to school. His salary last year was $39,000, one of the land baseball. In 1933 he married Miss Eleanor Grace Twite Chicago; their home is in New Rochelle, New York. ISS WINIFRED TAYLOR of Wembly, England, convalescent after three months in a hospital, went to the seashore at Hunstanton, England, to rest two weeks ago. It turned out she picked a poor place to recuperate. As she and a friend, Miss Doris Bassford, were standing on the pier, fire broke out behind them, trapping them. They jumped into the sea, 35 feet below. Although the water there was only three feet deep, it was sufficient to break the fall, and the women waded out uninjured.

Jascha Heifetz, violinist

ASCHA HEIFETZ, the world's greatest technical master of the violin, has just completed his first motion picture. Titled "They Shall Have Music," it presents the famous violinist not only as a musician but as an actor as well. Heifetz stipulated, when consenting to appear in the picture, that he should not be required to do any acting, but he became so interested in the story being unfolded before the camera—it deals with a settlement music school—that he waived this condition and assumed a role in the drama, portraying Jascha Heifetz. For his musical contribution to the film, he plays eight numbers, supported by the Los Angeles Symphony Orchestra and the Peter Meremblum California Junior Symphony Orchestra.

ISSOURI'S Ozark region is now included in the many parts of the world where special provision has been made for healthful, inexpensive sight-seeing by young people. A barn dance at De Soto recently opened formally the first season of the Missouri chain of American Youth Hostels, a series of shelters where boys and girls on hiking, cycling or horse-back tours can get rest, food and recreation at a minimum of expense, like the "Wander Birds" of Germany. The youth hostel idea originated in Europe, was introduced to this country in 1934; since then numerous chains have been established in the United States, with a national headquarters at Northfield, Massachusetts. A hosteler pays a small fee to the national organization and receives credentials which entitle him to use youth hostels wherever they exist, anywhere in the world. In America he pays 25 cents to stop overnight at a hostel; this buys not only sleeping and toilet accommodations but facilities for cooking meals and for recreation. If he chooses, he can buy prepared meals there at a low cost. The recommended travel budget is $1 a day. The hostels, some of them remodeled houses or barns, have separate bunk rooms and wash rooms for girls and boys but common dining and recreation rooms; each is in charge of a resident adult. The Missouri chain, which extends south from $t$. Louis as far as Granite-ville and west as far as Steelville, contains 13 hostels, all but three of which are finished, separated by distances ranging from 10 to 35 miles. It is under the direction of the Ozark Council of American Youth Hostels, Incorporated, Edward R. Meyer of $t$. Louis being the State chairman, and Miss Anne Goddard of Clayton, field worker. These photographs were made on the Missouri chain last week end.

Patsy discovers some bells in her master's pocket.

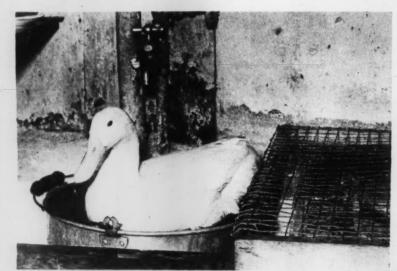

TRAINING a duck is certainly not duck soup, according to David Fullerton, who spent 15 months doing just that and should speak with some authority. In any test for the lowest I. Q. among fowls, the duck would win in a waddle, he says. For some reason — perhaps because it gave him less to work with — Fullerton chose the duck, and with the aid of electricidal devices designed by him achieved the results shown on this page. He began by purchasing a duckling from a poultry dealer for 25 cents and naming it Patsy. From then on it was a matter of constant repetition and much coaxing until Patsy reached her present prowess in duck tricks. The trick Patsy likes best is taking a bath, no trick at all for a duck.

MARGARET LINDSAY

THE YOUNG LADY FROM DUBUQUE

ARGARET LINDSAY, who used to be Margaret Kies in her home town, Dubuque, Iowa, has had her moments of stardom during the years she has been in Hollywood, but much of her time has been spent playing hussies who try to steal the heroine's husband or boy friend, or worthy but luckless girls who don't quite make the grade with the hero. Recently, however, she handled a starring role in a picture called "Secret Enemy" in such fashion that now her studio is reported to have big parts that are extra special in mind for her. Lending support, perhaps, to the rumor is this new photograph of Miss Lindsay engaged in a movie star's classic relaxation.

Photographed His Wife's Operation

Photographer Van Hoozer and his wife looking at pictures he took of her operation.

The operation.

HEN friends start speaking of operations, Mrs. John J. Van Hoozer of Omaha is in a position to make a contribution to the subject: She can show pictures of hers. The pictures were made recently—and reluctantly—by her husband, a newspaper photographer. He consented to don a white robe and take his camera into the operating room only after she declared that if he didn't she wouldn't have her appendix taken out. The operation was a success both surgically Mrs. Van Hoozer recovered quicklyand photographically, as these pictures attest.

Two ther stages in the appendectomy performed tecen y on Mrs. John J. Van Hoozer of Omaha, Ne raska, as photographed by her husband.

Lincoln-Tephys V.12 THE STYLE LEADER

You have admired the Lincoln-Zephyr as style leader. This is the car that influenced an industry. But it is very much more!

The Lincoln-Zephyr is a "twelve" - only one in its field. The extra luxury of extra cylinders now costs no more. Here is a difference!

This "twelve" is thrifty to operate on all roads, in all weathers. Here, too, is a difference!

Beneath the car's modern beauty is the only automotive structure of its kind. Steel panels, in all closed types, are welded to a rigid framework of steel trusses-great in strength (for safety), light in weight (for efficiency). This is a difference!

But you cannot truly appreciate how different this "twelve" is until you take it on the road! Driving can be fun - as 75,000 owners discover! Ask your nearby Lincoln-Zephyr dealer for a personal demonstration today! Lincoln Motor Company, Division of Ford Motor Company the only car of its kind. 1. Unit-body-andframe-steel panels welded to steel trusses 2. V-type 12-cylinder engine-smooth, quiet, economical power. 3. High power-to-weight ratio-low center of gravity. 4. Modern comfort-passengers "amidships" in chair-high seats-the gliding ride-direct entrance-high visibility. 5. Hydraulic brakes.

FOUR HUTCHINS And Three of Them Presidents

N 1929, when Dr. Robert Maynard Hutchins, then 30 years old, became president of the University of Chicago—and celebrated as the youngest college president in the country—there was one other member of the immediate family distinguished as an educator. That was his father, Dr. William James Hutchins, president of Berea College. Since then the number has increased to four. Young William Grosvenor Hutchins, brother of Robert, is English instructor at Western Reserve Academy, Hudson, Ohio, where he is noted as a reader of poetry. And another brother, Dr. Francis S. Hutchins, 36, now with Yale-in-China University, was recently appointed to succeed his father as president of Berea College next fall.
